

What will the children do at Transition to School?

- They will have the opportunity to increase their social skills through interaction with their peers.
- They will work on fine motor skill activities such as using scissors, printing letters, drawing, tracing and painting.
- They will become acquainted with the routines of the school and the primary classroom.
- They will learn to recognize their name and print it in lower case letters.
- They will learn to hang their coat, to sit quietly while they eat their lunch, to line up and cooperate with others.

All learning opportunities will use a child-centered approach and include activities that are motivating and fun.
